Town plans upgrade for Markstad Park

Elk Point Town Council is applying for lottery funding grants in readiness for their first phase of recreation development: upgrading the playground at Markstad Park. Council has chosen equipment which they feel will complement the wooden play structures already in place in the park, and are focusing on fun for the community's 5- to 12-year-olds.

Councillor Parrish Tung displayed a section of playground surface material made from recycled tires at last Monday's Council meeting, but Council found that, at $40,000 for the required area, a little rich for their taste. The proposed equipment will cost just over $22,500 and will be installed with the use of volunteer labor to save an additional $5,000. A qualified inspector/overseer is required to be on hand during the installation project, which is estimated will take 1.5 days to complete.

Council has a lengthy wish list for future recreation projects, ranging from the Iron Horse Trail staging area to walking trails, a skateboard park, fencing and paving the outdoor skating rink and preparing the land for a future water park.

Member of Parliament Leon Benoit visited Council, and discussed a number of matters, ranging from the war in Iraq to western alienation and gun registration. Benoit also addressed the issue of infrastructure funding for municipalities. "We [the Canadian Alliance] propose that the federal government should get out of gasoline taxes. Let the provinces step in and collect them, and make a deal with the municipalities that this money come back to them for infrastructure. It would be really hard for the province not to make a deal... the huge pool that would be there would be really helpful."

Gerald Tostowaryk offered Council his expertise in economic development planning, and said the most important part of the planning process is analysis, to come up with "a clear, focused goal, and update regularly. We can't make things happen until we know where we want to go."

Town auditor Barb McCarthy brought the 2002 Financial Statement to Council, and after giving a rundown on the statement, told them that with a $1,284 surplus for the year, "your tax rate is just about perfect."

Trade Show a profitable weekend

The three-day Elk Point Trade Show netted approximately $13,000 to support the A. G. Ross Arena, when all the income and expenses were totalled up at last Thursday's windup meeting of the Trade Show Committee.

Dick Miller of REACH Corporation, which helped to organize the show, said exhibitors were generally pleased by the number of contacts they had made during the three days, and felt participation had been worthwhile.

Crafters reported varying sales, with some very happy with the amount of product they had distributed while others felt the craft area needed more traffic to meet their expectations.

The committee felt the weekend had gone well, and have noted a number of suggestions for future shows. Although the committee was small, numerous volunteers assisted with making the show a major success.

■ Up Front

Water break closes library

Water. Water everywhere. That was the scene that met Elk Point librarian Daphne Schnurer when she came to work last Tuesday.

Sometime between closing time Monday and noon Tuesday, a wash-room toilet tank cracked for no apparent reason, spawning an ever-spreading puddle that covered floors in all but the furthest western corners of the library.

The Town's Public Works crew and volunteer Marshel Pelech arrived in short order to man a flotilla of shop vacuums, while volunteer Faye Smith scooped up water with a shovel and Library Board chair Sherry Milholland and Mrs. Schnurer attempted to rescue waterlogged books and dripping computers.

Other volunteers were pressed into service to help compact books on the adult fiction and non-fiction shelves to minimize the effects of dampness. When Northern Lights Library System director Mircea Panciuk heard about the emergency situation, he brought along more help to assist in packing all the books in the children's area into boxes and transporting them to NLLS headquarters to prevent further damage. The children's area took the brunt of the flood, and many books were already wrinkling, although fortunately, water levels did not reach the bottom shelves.

All possible water was vacuumed up by late Tuesday afternoon, and dehumidifiers and fans were brought in to remove further moisture.

A disaster services expert visited the library Thursday, and said his major concern was with the drywall, the bottom foot and a half of which was very wet in all areas of the library except the far west end and meeting room. He will be back today to check on its progress, as the dehumidifiers continue their work.

The books remaining in the library are "dehumidifying nicely," according to Mrs. Schnurer, who has "no idea" at this time when the library will reopen. Even if the drywall does not have to be replaced, "it will take a while to get back in running order."

Until the library reopens, patrons are asked to keep their books and other materials at home, and please do not place anything in the book return until further notice. Meetings planned for the library meeting room are being rescheduled or relocated.

THE BIG CLEANUP
The Town of Elk Point Public Works Department was called in to help vacuum up the flood.

Town Council sponsoring sound

Council gave second and final readings to a revised Bylaw 617/03, which will allow them to loan money to the MD of St. Paul Foundation for a 20-year term, and second reading to Bylaw 618/03, which will permit closure of the road directly west of the Elk Point Baptist Church.

Council agreed to another year as a gold sponsor for the Elk

Point Emergency Services Golf Tournament. Mayor Lyle Frisby said the tournament has developed "a lot of new interest this year."

Council deferred signing a library service agreement with the County of St. Paul until they meet with the County to discuss various matters.

The Town will sponsor the sound system for a fiddlers' jamboree on June 30 at the Seniors Recreation Centre as part of their celebration of 40 years as a town. The jamboree will be part of the entertainment lineup for an extended Canada Day weekend.

Alberta Nurses Week has been proclaimed in Elk Point by Mayor Frisby and Town Council for May 12 to 18.

THE ELK POINT REVIEW

COUNCIL MEETS THE COMMUNITY - Town Councillors Dennis Jasinsky (left) and Parrish Tung were among the elected officials who manned the Town's booth at the Trade Show. The Town and Chamber of Commerce booths were side by side, with both groups showing an attitude of cooperation and a joint desire to make the community thrive.

Canada Day gains momentum

Planning for Elk Point's Canada Day celebrations is going full steam ahead, with considerable enthusiasm being shown for the proposed antique tractor display and parade.

"People are hyper-ventilating and getting excited about this. I had 14 commitments in the first four days," said John Robertson, who volunteered last month to contact owners of old tractors to determine if there was an interest.

The tractors and other antique machinery will probably be displayed beside the Iron Horse Trail, and a site is also being sought for a plowing demonstration and a slow tractor race.

Another addition to the Canada Day lineup is a fiddlers' jamboree to be held at the Seniors Recreation Centre on Monday, June 30 at 7:30 p.m. The Pioneer Circle has cancelled their bingo for that evening in order to accommodate this special event.

French Exchange visitors tour Alberta

A group of 32 French-speaking high school students and four chaperones from Longueuil, Quebec left for home yesterday morning after spending 11 days touring Alberta with their Elk Point counterparts.

The students were welcomed to F. G. Miller at a special assembly on Friday, April 11, and also had the opportunity to hear a motivational message from former Edmonton Eskimo "Gizmo" Williams and to attend the Sound Dragons concert that day before going bowling in St. Paul.

Visits to Petrovera Petroleum's cleaning plant, Fort George and Buckingham House historic site and Corner Creek bison farm on Saturday were followed up by attendance at the Talent Explosion that evening.

Bus tours took the visitors and the local students to Banff, Calgary, Drumheller's Royal Tyrell Museum, CFB Cold Lake, the Alberta Legislature and West Edmonton Mall during the week.

Special activities including a talent show at FGM and a wiener roast and wagon rides at Ferguson Flats were scheduled for the Easter weekend, as the exchange visit drew to a close.

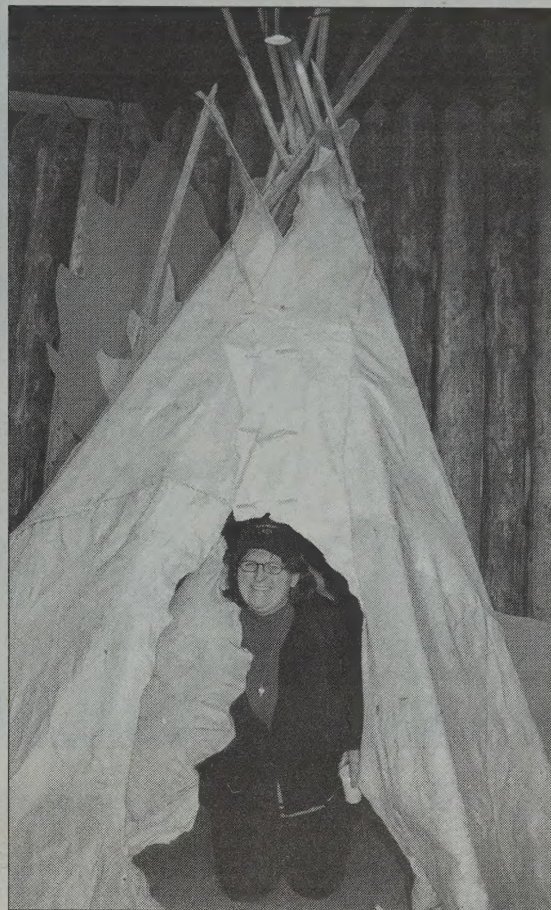

VISITING THE FUR TRADE ERA - Students from Longueuil and Elk Point examine some porcupine quill work displayed by Ross Stromberg.

WELCOME TO F. G. MILLER - Danielle Schnurer welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Students Union, presenting gift bags as each was introduced.

SHIRLEY STROMBERG proudly displayed her hand-made 1860s style minstrel banjo to Forts visitors.

MADAME LYNE JOLIN of Longueuil gets a first hand look at an elk hide teepee as the exchange visited Fort George and Buckingham House.

April in Alberta

It's April in Alberta.
There's a rustling o'er the land;
There's a hurry
And a scurry
Rushing water on each hand!
The crocus and the willow bud
Don't hurry coats again
And children splashing in the mud
Repeat the glad refrain
"Come out! Come out! It's April!
Spring is about in April!"
Lovers who with their loves are pleased
To dream the winter through
Now feel the urge
And the warm blood surge
To make those dreams come true!
Now great warm Nature with her wand
Looks over the naked plain
And sees the need
To quick the seed
And clothe the land again.
"Awake! Awake! It's April!
Life starts anew in April!"

Postcards from the Iron Horse Trail: peace & plenty

By Sheila Thompson
Life in the Slow Lane

Some landscapes are drop-dead gorgeous, there is no denying it. Others have a quiet beauty which charms unexpectedly. Such is Waskatenau, the western gateway to the Iron Horse Trail. Approaching the town, I encountered a sleepy main street leading to Railway Avenue. What awaited me there, now that I have seen it, could only be Waskatenau. To the east of Main Street stands a sturdy railway trestle spanning the Pine Creek ravine, the silhouette of St. Volodymyr Ukrainian Orthodox church, beckoning the traveler to enter the hopeful vista of Alberta's Ukrainian pioneers. This is the land that greeted them a century ago in their quest for peace and plenty.

The village of Waskatenau (pronounced Wah-SET-Nah) started building recreational trails in 1996 with a walking trail in the ravine. This was added onto and doubled in length in 2000. I left the village behind, followed the trail north along the creek, and enjoyed the bubbling of spring streams emptying into the beaver pond below. Looping back into town, I strolled along the quiet streets admiring the modest homes built by an earlier generation, even spotting a backyard biffy or two now used as a garden shed. I am sure. Rich, black garden patches were ready for spring planting.

Returning to Main Street and my starting point, I paused for a visit at the Little Country Lounge. The proprietor, Renate, greeted me warmly. I assumed she was a long time resident of the town, but to the contrary, she had just established her business one year ago. She combines a lounge and a laundromat for some creative cross-marketing. Waskatenau is hoping to benefit from proximity to Fort Saskatchewan, offering very attractive real estate prices in comparison.

It is a goal of the Iron Horse Trail to make a continuous connection from Edmonton to the Saskatchewan border. With extra effort one could actually do that now. Here's how it can work. You're going to need a support crew. Put your canoe in the North Saskatchewan at Edmonton and paddle to the Vinca Bridge, southeast of Redwater at Hwy 38 / 830. Now you get on your bicycle and travel Alberta's oldest road, the Victoria Trail. It is well marked and will lead you past the Redwater Sandhills Natural area and many historic buildings. When you get to Hwy 831 head north. Eight kilometres later, you're at Waskatenau and entering the continuous 300 km Iron Horse Trail. Another choice would be to continue cycling east along the river at Hwy 831 passing Lobstick Settlement, notable because it was originally surveyed into narrow, riverfront lots. Continue on to Victoria Settlement Historic Site to learn another chapter of Alberta's history. This historic and scenic drive extends 56 km.

Besides wanting to take a look at Waskatenau's trestle and churches, I traveled to Smoky Lake County to attend the annual general meeting of Riverland Recreational Trail Society which oversees the Iron Horse Trail. It has been a busy year for the society with over 5000 volunteer hours logged throughout the region. Many people with a great variety of interests wish to build this legacy in northeastern Alberta. Partners include historical societies, community clubs, recreation groups, chambers of commerce, and the backbone of the entire project, the 10 municipalities which own the line cooperatively.

Springtime in Waskatenau, today, as in pioneer days, continues to be a time of optimism, looking ahead to a year of peace and plenty. Trail building, too, is an optimistic endeavor, exploring what the landscape has to offer and trying to make the world a better place for having been there.

The official opening of the Iron Horse Trail is Sunday, June 8 at Ashmont. Plan a special trip along the trail and join us for the festivities. If you have suggestions for Sheila's "slow lane" adventures, or if you would like to come along, she can be reached at 780 724-2007.

The benefits of volunteerism

When I think of volunteers, I remember the Goose Story by an unknown author. Let me quote the story. "Next fall when you see geese heading south for the winter flying along in a "V" formation, you might be interested in knowing what science has discovered about why they fly that way. It has been learned that as each bird flaps its wings, it creates an uplift for the bird immediately following. By flying in a "V" formation, the whole flock adds at least 71% greater flying range than if each bird flew on its own.

Whenever a goose falls out of formation, it suddenly feels the drag and resistance of trying to go it alone, and quickly gets into formation to take advantage of the lifting power of the bird immediately in front. When the lead goose gets tired, he rotates back in the wing and another goose flies point. The geese honk from behind to encourage those up front to keep up their speed.

Finally, when a goose gets sick, or is wounded by gunshots and falls out, two geese fall out of formation and follow him down to help and protect him. They stay with him until he is either able to fly or until he is dead, and they then launch out on their own or with another formation to catch up with the group."

When you think about the story, we can observe from the geese when they fly in a "V" formation, that likewise, people who share a common direction and sense of community can get where they are going more quickly and easily because... they are traveling on the thrust of one another. When volunteers work together, this happens. It is also nice to see others supporting each other. The other geese honk in support — we can remember to support each other as well.

Also in the story we noted that when a goose falls out of formation, another takes its place. We could learn from this example. It is just as sensible for people to take turns doing demanding jobs as it is for geese flying south. Now I know you are probably laughing about this one. Yes, it seems like when a volunteer is in a leadership position, it is very hard when that person would like to step back and have another volunteer take a leadership position — it doesn't always happen. But, if we learn from the geese, taking turns is not a bad idea — right!

Finally — the last part of the story, and this is important — when a goose gets sick or is wounded by gunshots and falls out of formation, two other geese fall out of formation and go to that goose. What compassion and common sense when you think about it. Wouldn't it be great if people had the sense of geese and stood by each other like that!

So now I have shared the story with you and I have made comments about it. What are your thoughts? In Elk Point we have many volunteers and they work together. They help each other and they do all of this for the betterment of our community. Thus as National Volunteer Week is from April 27 through to May 3, we are hosting a community volunteer potluck supper social evening for all our community volunteers on Wednesday, April 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Seniors Centre. Please come. It is a volunteer thank you evening.

Rural towns get rough stock rodeos

Myrnam hosts Rough Riders on April 26

From the St. Paul
Journal

An Elk Point man is taking a love for rodeo, a lifetime of experience and some ingenuity and bringing a new version of rodeo to rural Alberta.

It's just a new organization," said Ben Lowry, one of the founding members of North American Rough Riders Inc.

"Myrnam is kicking it off," Lowry said, adding that the event, sponsored by the Myrnam Agricultural Society, will be the first rodeo in town for about 20 years.

Lowry said Rough Riders will feature many of the top rodeo performers, including Canadian National Rodeo champions and qualifiers, and some of the best stock in the province.

"We're letting people know, no matter who you are, if you have a good horse, you can compete. We're combining the two to bring quality entertainment to a small community."

Rough Riders' mission, Lowry said, is to enhance and promote the extreme sport of rough stock rodeo by producing top quality events. One of the differences with this rodeo, however, is the absence of timed events.

"We eliminated the times events," said Lowry. "Most people want to see the rough stock."

"We guarantee you're going to see 36 of the top pro cowboys in Canada."

The event kicks off in Myrnam, April 26 at 7 p.m. at the Ag Complex.

Settling in to soccer season...

By Tracy Kjenner
Elk Point Soccer Club

The soccer season is once again upon us and children, parents and coaches are gearing up to commence practices and eagerly anticipate the challenges of upcoming games.

Soccer club members are very thankful for all the volunteers who have come forward to help this season. More volunteers, however, are always welcome and appreciated.

Advanced soccer players looking for an opportunity to earn a few extra dollars may be interested in knowing that the soccer club is looking for linesmen for this season. If you are interested in such a position, please contact Sheila Nelson at 724-2523.

Singer/songwriter concert Saturday

There's something special in store for music lovers in the Elk Point area this weekend.

Linda Nichols has gathered together a line-up of talented performers for a singer/songwriter concert scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 26 at the Elk Point United Church.

Among the performers is local teen Addison Bartholomew, who wowed the judges at Talent Explosion 2003 when he performed with fellow musician Colin Ference. Suzan Bartholomew is another well known local performer, as are Glenn Harms, the inimitable Geno Buck and the multi-talented trio of Debbie Lawrence, Gwen Morris and Matilda Morrison.

This will be the first performance on the Elk Point scene for musicians Alex Bean Sedmak, Samara Sedmak and George Thomson.

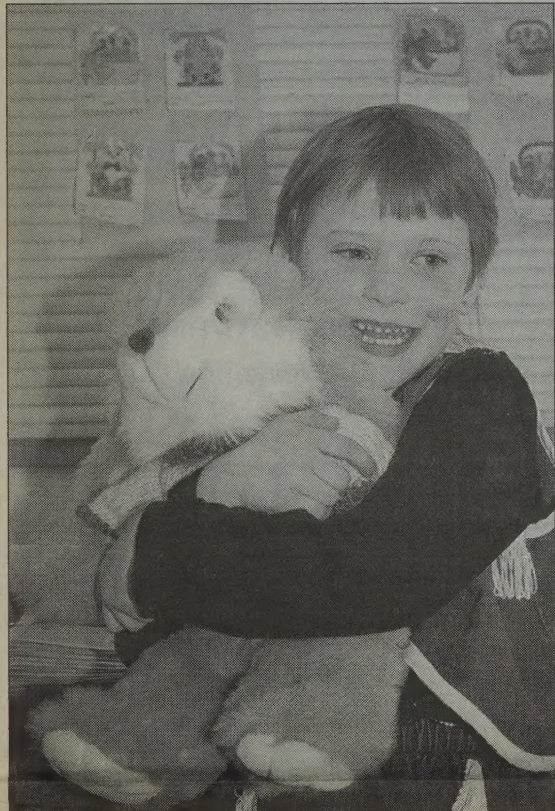

Please contact Linda Nichols for more information at (780) 875-6585 or (780) 645-1391.
